

DR. ANITA RICH

Dr. Anita Rich has been a cardiology nurse for Emory Healthcare in Atlanta, Georgia for 42 years and currently serves as the Heart Failure Coordinator and the Diabetes Care and Education Specialist. She is a Senior Clinical Instructor at the Emory University School of Nursing in Atlanta, Georgia. Dr. Rich is the founder and Chief Executive Officer of the international non-profit, Nurses Heart to Heart, and has taught nurses in Mongolia, Tanzania, and Iraq.

Dr. Rich is passionate about supporting and equipping nurses, and she believes that no matter where in the world nurses practice their professions, the heart of a nurse is hope. The more knowledge nurses have, the more powerful they can become to equip their patients to survive and thrive, and the more impact they can have on this amazing profession of nursing.
